 QuickSheet Your Stripped-Bare Guide to CITING SOURCES (Elizabeth Shown Mills)
First ask: Then ask: and	What am I holding? Who? What? Where? Why should I believe it?
If you are holding ...	Then cite ...
Article in periodical (journal, magazine, newspaper)	- Author, "Article Title," - Periodical title, volume number (year date) - Page numbers for the article's start and end points and for specific data
Artifact	- Description of the artifact - Date created or estimated, current owner's name, address - Anything known about its origin and chain of ownership
Book	- Author, Title (publication place: publisher, date), page Tip: Check back of title page to see if this is a reprint of an older book. If so, also record the original publication year, to place the citation in proper time frame.
Book chapter	- Individual author, "Chapter Title," - Editor, Book title (publication place: publisher, date), page numbers for start and end points and specific data
Census	- Creator of census, type, and year - Name, county, town, ward, enumeration district, page, dwelling/family numbers, person by exact spelling - Then add: - Identification of media according to one of the media types below
Certificate	- Name of agency that issued certificate (birth/death, marriage/divorce) - Certificate number, name of key person, date of record
Document, Letter, or Manuscript (unpublished form)	- Author, "Name of Document or Manuscript," date, place written - File and/or collection name and number - Reel/frame name, city, state/province, country - Then add: - Details from the spine or cover, then page number and specific item - Office or church name, city/town, state/province, country
Manuscript register (cemetery, city hall, church)	- Details from the spine or cover, then page number and specific item - Office or church name, city/town, state/province, country
MEDIA TYPES	- Full details for the material that has been imaged—using one of the source types above - Library's label for the film or fiche—taken from "file page" at start of film or fiche - Agency that created the film, and filming date—usually located at start of film
Microfilm	- Same pattern as for citing a book—i.e., - Creator, Title (publication place/date), date, internal location of specific item
Website access device, citing ...	- Same pattern as for citing a chapter in a book—i.e., - Author, "Article or Chapter Title," (medium creator, Year Date URL), date, specific item - Details for the material that has been digitized—using one of the source types above - Then add: - Site creator, Site Title (publication place/URL), date, specific item

Synopsis

In this two-sided laminated QuickSheet, Elizabeth Mills offers the bare-naked essentials of citing sources for everything from books and articles to manuscripts and websites. Showing how easy (and necessary) it is to cite your sources accurately, she provides a template that can be applied by anyone using almost any type of source material. In a single chart containing ten main entries, she actually creates a comprehensive--if bare-boned--guide to citing sources. On top of that she offers a unique form to fill out--a source-data collection form for use at point of contact with each source. Starting with a column containing the basic elements from author/creator to manuscript and microfilm, the form provides space for notes for each specific source, so that each source consulted can be unmistakably identified, answering the basic who, what, where, and when type of questions as quickly and easily as possible. For a quick overview of the methods of citing sources, this QuickSheet is indispensable and easily lives up to its famous name.

Customer Reviews

Gave me a quick, concise view of what I need for each source. Can take it with me to the library, courthouse, or wherever I am doing research to help me get the information needed so the source can be found again later.

Poorly laminated. At $6.55 for ONE PIECE of paper, the lamination should be done properly. Would not buy again.

Pricey but an excellent tool.

Nice shortcuts

This is an excellent outline on what is needed in citing sources. On the back is a form that can be copied and used when obtaining multiple sources. This quicksheet has been laminated for protection.

I probably should have simply bought the book, but this guide has been useful when I've made presentations about how to cite sources.

Can't go wrong using the quick guides from E.S. Mills. Highly recommend for all researchers.
